Program:

Experimenting together & arousing curiosity and interest

The DiMi-STEAMweek offers children aged 7-10 the opportunity to get a taste of the STEM area (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) during the summer holidays.

For this purpose, robotics, programming and creativity are used to invite children to experiment and try things out. The workshops are developed by educators and researchers in the field of STEM education. We will also visit the AEC festival and test new technologies to experience and develop innovative ideas.

The aim of the week is to spark children's interest in the STEM field, to motivate them for a possible future in the STEM field and to break down stereotypes about the STEM field.

All materials are provided, and there is also a child-friendly morning snack and lunch. Prior knowledge is not necessary for the workshops.
